A Most Valuable Estate
FOR SALE.

THAT beautiful estate, commonly known by the name of MONTOURS' or LONG ISLAND, about five miles below Pittsburgh, in the Ohio river, containing in the whole 1,000 acres, is offered for sale. It is divided into three separate tracts, on each of which there are handsome improvements; the land is of the best quality, well timbered, and not subject to overflow. It is universally esteemed, both as to soil and situation, the finest property in the western country. The proprietors would prefer selling the whole in a body, but to suit purchasers, it may be divided into three tracts.

The terms may be known by applying to Major Isaac Craig on the premises, or to the subscriber, who is agent for the proprietors, at his office in Pittsburgh.

JAMES HALL,
Attorney at Law

To Rent or Sell,

A BREWERY, pleasantly situated on the bank of the Ohio river in the town of Gallipolis, county of Gallia and state of Ohio.

This Brewery is in complete operation, and has all the necessary buildings &c. adjoining the same, such as malt-house, kiln, pump &c. There is a piece of woodland attached to the property, where timber and firewood can be obtained in any quantity, for the use of the brewery. Barley can also be had on reasonable terms from the farmers in the neighbourhood, who now attend pretty largely to the cultivation thereof.

This brewery is in a fine situation for business—4 miles below the mouth of the Great Kenhawa, on which river any quantity of malt liquors can be sold for the consumption of the Salt-works.

The buildings and pump are calculated for the establishment of a Distillery, which would be of great advantage in Gallipolis where there is none.

Terms will be made easy and accommodting. For further particulars, apply to

PETER MAGNIER.

WESTERN HOTEL,
No. 228 MARKET STREET,
Sign of General Washington.

THE subscriber begs leave to inform his friends and the public, that he has taken that well known establishment in Market street, next door to the Pittsburgh Mail Stage Office, and lately occupied by Mr. George Yohe. To those who have been accustomed to resort to this house, it is unnecessary to point out its superior advantages. For the information of others we deem it necessary to state that its situation is central, high, healthy and convenient to business; an extensive range of back buildings, consisting of lodging rooms, afford a fine view of the city to the eastward, and admit a free and uninterrupted circulation of air—and what will give them a decided preference in the opinion of many, is the attachment thereto of balconies, so constructed as not only to afford pleasant promenades, but easy means of escape in the event of any necessity from any sudden alarm of fire. The great Western Stages start every morning from the door, and on the premises is one of the best Livery Stables in the city, conducted by Mr. John Tomlinson, where travellers' horses will be faithfully attended to. With these advantages, and some other improvements now making, added to his own unremitted exertions to please, the subscriber confidently hopes for, and very respectfully solicits a share of public patronage.

CASH,

I HAVE determined to sell my FARM, at the fork of Chartier's creek, in the county of Washington, fifteen miles from Pittsburgh, consisting of about 214 acres, so low for CASH as to make it a great object for any one having the command of money. Its advantages in point of soil, timber, water, sugar camps, neighbourhood, proximity to mills, markets, the turnpike road from Washington to Pittsburgh, meeting houses and an excellent college, are well known—Added to these, some enterprising individuals of capital, are now boring for Salt within a quarter of a mile of it, at a lick which has produced salt from the surface, so that no doubt is entertained of their success. This will be useful, not only to the vicinity in general, but it will be of peculiar benefit to the tract hereby offered for sale, as it will afford a constant market for the stone coal with which the land abounds. I will give the purchaser a PATENT in my own name and a general warranty deed. The title is indisputable. I am willing to dispose of eight or ten other tracts, on moderate terms.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 28th, 1819.

To Emigrants.

HAVING associated myself with a considerable company for the purpose of settling a new place in the state of Illinois, opposite the mouth of White river and Patoka, at the foot of the Grand Rapids of the Wabash, (MOUNT CARMEL) with an intention to remove to it, as soon as practicable, I have contracted for the making and burning of 150,000 brick, which I wish put up next season into buildings, and the Bricklayer's and carpenter's work undertaken conjointly, the plaistering and whitewashing included. Lands adjoining the Town, and town lots, at cash prices, and cash, a proportion of each will be given in payment when the work is completed.

Having entered lands for the accommodation of settlers favourable to the views of the settlement, a considerable body adjoining the settlement and town lands, divided into lots of from 10 to 100 and 160 acres each may be had at the Congress prices, with the exception of the interest on the money paid, and a small advance to defray expences, &c.

☞ I wish to employ some persons to enclose or clear lands for me, for which I will pay in lands at cash prices. I have a body of open and timbered lands, that I would lease from 5 to 10 years on advantageous terms to emigrants unable to purchase. A convenient farm to let, by an early application to the Agent may be had.

A canal for boats and water works around the Grand Rapids of the Wabash, a company is forming to commence opening next season, that will afford employment for labourers, and no inconsiderable inducement to capatilist to invest their funds in the establishment. Considerable encouragement and aid have already been tendered for that purpose by emigrants from the Eastern States. The river is open for navigation from this place to New-Orleans all the year.

Application may be made to WM. BEAUCHAMP, the Agent for the establishment, residing in Mount Carmel, or to the subscriber, residing at present in New-port. None need apply but moral characters.

Why sinks that Star bespangled flag,
From height where late it proudly flew
Like Eagle on the mountain crag,
That mocks the hunter's straining view.
Why are those stripes of varied die,
By patriot viewed with tearful gaze,
As arch that spans the Ev'ning sky,
Through pearly drops its hues displays;
What mean those sad and solemn peals,
That on Columbia's borders swell,
While echo to her grots reveals,
Each ling'ring sound from magic shell.
Has foeman conquered in the fight
The freemen, so unwont to yield,
And severed from its gallant height,
The banner of the azure field?
No! that high banner scorns to stoop,
Before the proudest of the foe;
Its folds but for a moment droop,
To tell afar a nation's woe.
Those fitful peals which fill the gale,
That sports along Columbia's shore,
Proclaim to patriot ear the tale,
That Erie's victor is no more.
He fell not in the fearful fight,
That foemen wage for deathless name;
He yielded not to mortal might,
The life unstain'd by recreant's shame.
But tho' he sunk not in the time,
Nor in the pride, of victory;
Dear is his fame to freedom's clime,
And cherished by the patriot free.
Long, long as rolls dark Erie's wave,
Where first a victor's name he won,
While laurels grace the virtuous brave,
Or deeds of chivalry are done;
His fame, sublime and proud shall stand,
On history's eternal page,
The glory of his native land,
A monument to distant age.

The late intelligence from Europe, received at Boston, tends to confirm all the ideas that we had before entertained, with regard to the state of that kingdom. The Prince Regent's speech, although much reliance is placed on the loyalty of his subjects, evidently shews perturbation and alarm. The uproar excited is not of a light and transitory cast. The debates in the House of Commons, are declared by one editor, to be but a frightful comment on the state of the times.—A bill it seems has been introduced, to prevent the people from enuring themselves in the discipline of arms, unless sanctioned by ministerial authority: severe pains and penalties are denounced against printers, who shall publish obnoxious sentiments—in fact, there is to be a frightful extension of the criminal law; offences in the case of printers, heretofore punished by fine and imprisonment are now to be restrained by banishment or by transportation: the press is to be laid under severe restrictions. These several bills, all indicating the temper of the times, passed the commons by an overwhelming ministerial majority, and in the House of Peers so great was that majority, that they did not even divide upon the question. We cannot therefore, presume from such evidence, that there will be any parliamentary yielding, to the popular cry for reform. Every measure adopted by the government, and every counteracting measure adopted by the people, point to hostile bayonets.

That wonderfully important animal Cobbett, has at length arrived, and not only himself, but the bones of Thomas Paine also. This will undoubtedly form an important era in the history of England; it is true that great changes have happened in this world—great political revolutions—great internal and external convulsions; but glorious to relate, the bones of Thomas Paine, have arrived in safety to the land of his ancestors. It is stated with considerable confidence, that Sir Hudson Lowe, has at his own request, been recalled from his employment, as the keeper of Bonaparte—his ill health is said to be the cause of his recall—Sir Philip Broke has been, (as report goes,) appointed his successor; this officer was the commander of the Shannon, at the time of the capture of the Chesapeake. If that officer derives the glory of his appointment from the Chesapeake, which was commanded at that time by the lamented Lawrence, let it be remembered by way of American retaliation, that Perry commanded the Lawrence in the glorious and decisive victory of Erie.

In Spain, every thing is stated to be tranquil—nay more, it is said that England has entered into a treaty with Ferdinand, by which she has stipulated to cause the Spanish flag to be respected by the United States. This report it seems, is discredited in London; but why it is we are at a loss to imagine; it is perfectly plain to us, that if the reputation of Ferdinand is ever to be respected, it must have an endorser. However, the report is hardly creditable, that England at the very time that her ministers are employed in putting down domestic insurrections, transporting printers and using every engine and every stratagem for the suppression of domestic revolt, is about embarking in a new quarrel with the United States.

In France, it seems that the Napoleon power is on the decline; advocates of that exiled monarch are turned out of office, and the whole country is represented to be in a state of profound tranquility. This we believe to be the fact, for judging from the course of the atmosphere, or of the ocean, a hurricane or a tempest, is succeeded by a calm. The incendiaries of France, finding a residence in their own country no longer congenial to their tempers, fly to other countries, and scatter seeds of fire in their passage. The whole civilized world is now, more or less, infested by the presence of these uneasy spirits.

But it is not improbable that our own government may receive important dispatches by the recent arrival from Europe. If England has entered into a treaty with Spain, so obnoxious to our interests, our Minister at the Court of St. James, would not be so remiss in his duty, as not to give the earliest information. Should a regulation of this kind have taken place, the Americans will have none to censure but their own pirates. Our Algerines will have brought this misery upon their country. In short the intelligence from Europe, proves what we had anticipated already.

Our Congress will shortly arrive at the working season, and they will have nothing more to do than to consult the welfare of their constituents, nothing more than to act with dignity, and they may rely in every emergency with entire confidence, on the support of their fellow citizens. Balt. Morn. Chron.

The following official letter explains a transaction in regard to which some misstatements have appeared—we can add, that at a council held near Camp Missouri in Oct. ast, at which the principal chief and warriors of the Pawnee nation attended, the articles stolen were restored, the most friendly disposition manifested, and assurances given that the plunderers should recieve corporeal punishment.—Union.

[COPY.]

Kansas Town, (fork of the Kansas and Blue Water river) Aug 24, 1819.

SIR—You already know of my intention of proceeding with the scientific gentlemen employed by the government, from Fort [illegible] to the Council Bluffs—crossing the River Kansas and La Plate at the Kansas and Pawnee towns. I have now to inform you, that after having experienced the most friendly treatment from the Kansas nation, we left them yesterday in the afternoon accompanied by three of the natives to guide us on our first day's journey. We encamped about eight miles from the village—in the dusk of the evening I discovered rushing over the priarie towards us, a party of 120 or 130 Indian warriors The Kansas aware that they were their enemies, the Pawnees fled immediately in the greatest dismay.

Trusting to our flag for security, I advanced to meet them, and was greeted with the usual salutation of friendship; they soon, however, crowded round our camp in a tumultuous, manner, and it required all my efforts to prevent their plundering our baggage. In this I was only partially successful, and in wresting an article from one of them, he cocked his gun at me, and gestures of hostility were made use of by the others No personal insult, however, was offered, but eventually they stole all our horses, a number of small articles belonging to the party, and cut down our tent. When I remind you that my party thus surrounded consisted of but six soldiers, you will readily understand the necessity I was under of avoiding hostility however grating it might be to my feelings to be plundered with impunity. I was restrained also from firing into them, in consideration of the valuable lives that would be thus risked, and the expectation that before they left us, order, and the authority of the chiefs would be restored, and that they would return the articles they had stolen. Had I any suspicion, previous to their approach, that they would have violated the sanctity of our flag, I could have adopted such measures as would have protected our property.

I have no idea that this has been a measure of premeditated hostility on the part of the Pawnees. The war parties of that nation are remarkably large, ferocious, and ungovernable, and outrages committed by them are frequently disavowed by the nation; and taking into consideration that they found us so near their enemy in their company, I consider it fortunate that no blood has been shed. So little do I apprehend that the nation is hostile, that if I could obtain transportation I would proceed to their towns. I have not, however, the means of purchasing horses; and I am also anxious that the restoration of our property should be made under imposing circumstances as will convince these savages, that the flag of the United States protects its bearers in every situation. I send an Indian with this letter, to request that the steam boat may be stopped at the Isle aux Vaches. I will have to travel slowly; two of the party are much indisposed, and all of us are worn down and exhausted

I have the honor to be,
Colonel, your obedient servant,
THOMAS BIDDLE,
Major U. S. Artillery.

From the Boston papers received by this morning's mail.

Extracts from the Adversiser.

Parliament was opened on the 23d of November. The Prince Regent, in his speech, lamented the necessity which obliged him to inform them that a spirit of insubordination had manifested itself among some portion of the manufacturing classes, subversive of public order, and seeking to destroy, not merely the political institutions of the State, but to subvert the security of private property. Upon the loyality of the great body of the people he had the firmest reliance: but it become their duty, both collectively and individually, to oppose the machinations of sedition; and in pursuance of this object, he had given orders that every necessary information should be laid before them.

He informed the house of Commons that the estimates for the service of the ensuing year should be laid before them. For securing the public peace, he had thought it necessary to enlarge the military establishment; but be trusted they would find that the means resorted to were such as would attain this object with the least possible expence. He lamented to state that the revenue had undergone some fluctuations, but he had the satisfaction of adding, that it was at present in a progressive state of improvement.

His Royal Highness continued to receive from Foreign Powers the assurance of their friendly disposition. He was desirous that advantage should be taken of the present moment of peace to advance the general prosperity of the realm. But this could not be obtained unless the public tranquility was placed upon a secure foundation. He lamented that some branches of our manufactures were depressed, and he felt sensibly for the distresses of the individuals whose interests were more immediately connected with them, but he believed that much of this depression originated in the distresses of foreign countries, and hoped that it would be found to be merely of a temporary nature.

His Royal Highness then impressed upon Parliament the necessity of proceeding without delay to the consideration of the most effectual means to maintain the public tranquility, and exhorted them to prevent by every means the dissemination of seditious and treasonable principles. The observance of religion, and a due subordination to lawful authority, were the only means of preserving that Divine favor which had hitherto blessed this country in an eminent degree, and the continuance of which would, he trusted, again restore the blessing of prosperity and peace.

Very strong measures have already been proposed in Parliament. Lord Sidmouth said that confidential servants of the crown had to propose measures by which evils of great magnitude might be arrested. There was a deep, growing and malignant conspiracy to overturn the whole fabric of the Constitution. It was chiefly the Press that had brought the country into this peril. It was therefore proposed to visit with an increased weight of punishment, even to banishment, the repetition of seditious work. It was next proposed to impose some impediments to the meetings of large bodies of disaffected persons. Drilling was to be prevented by another bill, and magistrates authorised to seize military weapons. Lord Castlereagh stated that the inhabitants in many districts were in a state bordering on rebellion, and introduced a bill for preventing seditious meetings which was read a first time.—Earl Grey thought the situation of the country required very different remedies. A system of force, coercion and terror, would not allay but inflame the people. The Liverpool Mercury of the 4th Dec. says that "the debates with which Parliament has opened, are a dreadful comment on the state to which the inhabitants of this once free and prosperous nation are reduced."

The London Courier of Dec. 3, states that the debates in both Houses of Parliament the preceding night were very important The bills for the seizure of arms, and the prevention and punishment of drilling and training, were read a second time without a division, in the House of Lords. Lord Sidmouth stated that the training had materially increased and extended, and that arms to a considerable amount had recently been procured. The Seditious Meetings' bill was read a second time in the Commons, and the majority in its favor was 223.

A proclamation had been issued, declaring the county of Roscommon in Ireland, in a state of disturbance.

Sir Francis Burdet has received notice that an information has been filed against him for his letter to the electors of Westminster.

Cobbet has arrived in England from New-York. There had been a large meeting of the people, which Cobbett addressed at considerable length, on the subjects of reform, Mr. Pain's remains, &c. A public dinner was given to him in the eveniog at the Castle Inn, at which the beverage consisted of pure water.

Twenty warrant officers were ordered to the Lakes on Canada.

A London paper says that the Earthquake in India, June 16, the whole district and territory of Kutch, a country situated on the N. W. of Bombay, and including several towns and villages, have been destroyed with 2000 inhabitants.

On the 29th of Nov. the French Parliament was opened by a Speech from the King, which represented the affairs of France as in a flourishing condition—and was received with acclamations.

An action has been brought at Paris by M. Mollet against Joseph Bonaparte for property estimated at 200,000 francs, said to have been taken in Spain, when he was king.

Fifty-nine editions of the Scriptures, consisting of 270,000 copies, are now printing by the Bible Society.

IMPRISONMENT OF THE LEARNED.

Imprisonment seems not much to have disturbed the man of letters in the progress of his studies.

It was in prison that Boethius composed his excellent book on the consolation of philosophy.

Grotius wrote, in his confinement his commentary on St. Matthew.

Buchanan, in his dungeon of a monastery in Portugal, composed his excellent Paraphrases on the Psalms of David.

Pelisson, during five years confinement for some state affairs, pursued with ardor his studies in the Greek language, in philosophy, and particularly in theology, and produced several good compositions.

Michael Cervantes composed the best and most agreeable book in the Spanish language, during his captivity in Barbary.

Fleta, a well known and very excellent little law production, was written by a person confined in the Fleet prison for debt, but whose name has not been preserved.

Louis XII when he was duke of Orleans, being taken prisoner at the battle of St. Aubin, was long confined in the tower of Bourges, and applying himself to his studies, which he had hitherto neglected, he became in consequence, an able and enlightened monarch.

Margaret, queen of Henry IV of France confined in the Louvre, pursued very warmly the study of elegant literature, and composed a very skilful apology for the irregularities of her conduct.

Queen Elizabeth, while confined by her sister Mary, wrote some very charming poems, which we do not find she ever could equal after her enlargement; and Mary, Queen of Scots, during her long imprisonment by Elizabeth, produced many beautiful poetic compositions.

Sir Walter Raleigh produced, in his confinement, his History of the World, of whom it is observed, to employ the language of Hume, 'they had leisure to reflect on the hardships, not to say the injustice of his sentence. They pitied his active and enterprising spirit, which languished in the rigors of confinement.—They were struck with the genius of the man, who being educated amidst naval and military enterprizes, had surpassed in the pursuits of literature, even those of the most recluse and sedentary lives; and they admired his unbroken magnanimity, which at his age, and under his circumstances, could engage him to undertake and execute so great a work as his History of the World.'

Miraculous Escape.—Mr. Henry Luke of the town of Bethlehem having been abroad on business, on Saturday the 15th of Nov. last, was returning in the evening at 9 o'clock; and when within a mile and a half of his own door, pursuing his way through a piece of woods, wandered a distance from the public road, and was suddenly precipitated down a ledge of rocks. He fell perpendicularly 56 feet, then struck upon the side of the precipice, and dislocated his right hip joint; from thence he tumbled along down to the bottom 106 feet further, and lodged upon a flat rock, where he lay until 8 o'clock on Sunday morning, when he was accidentally discovered by S. and D. Sager, Esqs. He was yet sensible, though exceedingly chilled. He was removed to his own house on the same day, and on Monday his hip was reduced; and, although much injured inwardly, he is now pronounced by Dr Lloyd, the attending physician, to be in a happy state of recovery.

January 4. MARGARET DUNCAN

PITTSBURGH.

Friday, Jan. 7, 1820.

We have heard some insinuations resting the probability of a law being passed, stopping legal process as one means, interalia of removing the distresses of the country. We do not pretend to be very much experienced on this subject, but with our present lights, we really cannot discover how the end could be attained in this way; a law of this kind might stop the sacrifice of some property, but the distress would in our opinion still be the same; in most cases if the defendant be saved, the plaintiff will be ruined. There is something in the constitution too, about impairing the validity of contracts which at all events would probably prevent the circuit courts of the United States from sanctioning such a law, and the legislature will have gained nothing if the U. States bank be not prevented from pushing her debtors. Such a law might have the effect of transferring a great number of debts to other states in order to have suits brought in the United States courts. But what limits would there be to this law? it must of course remain until better days shall dawn upon us: when will this be? we can say for our western country that this time will never arrive until manufactures once more flourish at the head of the Ohio;—the law then must be unlimited. Would Pennsylvania lose character by such a measure? we remember when similar laws were enacted by Ohio and some of the southern states during the war that Pennsylvania was the first to cry, shame upon such conduct. It would have one destructive tendency which would counterbalance every good that could possibly flow from it, particularly in a commercial sale. Not a bank debt would be paid, and every bank in Pennsylvania would be entirely ruined; the current notes of, would be immediately uncurrent, and we should be entirely deprived of a circulating medium.

We would rather hear something like what is contained in the conclusion of Mr. Crawford's report: there is more practical good sense in this Document than in any thing we have seen. He tells the country in plain terms, that it must submit to taxes, and that manufactures must be encouraged by prohibitory duties. This is the only means of doing any good for us, and Pennsylvania ought to address the general government in terms not to be mistaken. We would have required one paragraph like Mr. Crawford's, in the Presidents Message than all that was said about the contemptible Florida negociation.

In the Virginia legislature last week resolutions were submitted, protesting against the interpretation of the federal constitution by the supreme court in the case of the national bank, and against the constitutionality of that bank They instruct their senators to use their best efforts to amend the constitution, so as to authorize the erection of a tribunal for the decision of all conflicts between the state and national authorities and to resist all encroachments of the general government on the rights of the states as grounded in the Virginia legislature of 1798.—Frank. Gaz.

Major Vose and Lieut. Downie of the 5th infantry, from the falls of St. Anthony arrived in town a few days ago. They left the Falls on the 25th ultimo, and came down by water. They were in general good health, and the Indians of the Upper Mississippi were much pleased with the establishment of the military post in their neighbourhood.—St Louis Enq.

DREADFUL MORTALITY.

A letter from a young gentleman in Savannah, to his father in this town, dated November 12, mentions that of 102 Irishmen who arrived there in one vessel the 1st of September, not one now survives! The total number of deaths in the city during the month of September, was computed at 400!

AUBURN, Dec. 15.

THE GREAT CANAL.

In this age of wonders, perhaps nothing is more calculated to excite the admiration of the intelligent and reflecting part of the community, than that ninety-six miles of canal principally through a wilderness, should be completed in the short space of two years and five months, from the time of its commencement—yet such such appears to be the fact. We have it from authority not to be doubted that from Utica to near Salina the canal is not only navigable, but has actually been navigated; the navigation there, however, was then prevented by a small piece of work which was not completed. The western part of the middle section has also been completed and navigated. Information having been given, that the canal from Seneca river to Salina, would be completed about the 10th inst. a boat was prepared at Seneca Falls, with a temporary cabin and other conveniences, and notice was given that she would leave Montezuma at nine o'clock A. M. of the 10th inst. It so happened however; that the weather, which for several days had been very mild and pleasant, changed suddenly, and at the appointed time for starting, it was very cold and unpleasant, and to add to the difficulties to be encountered in the first voyage, the canal was covered with ice from one to two inches in thickness. A number of gentlemen, with Mr Holley one of the commissioners, had, however, collected, and about half past eleven o'clock the boat with two horses attached to her, left Seneca river, in defiance of the inclemency of the weather and ice in the canal. It was found on trial that two horses would propel the boat against the ice at the rate of rather more than two miles an hour.

The party proceeded and arrived at Mr. King's in Mentz, a distance of about six miles, with the two horses and with from fifty to seventy passengers. At Mr. King's two more horses were added, and the boat proceeded amidst the acclamations of the citizens, and arrived at Jordan, a distance by the canal of nearly sixteen miles from the Seneca river, before seven o'clock in the evening, having passed on the route three locks and stopped one hour at Mr. King's, which leaves about six hours for travelling sixteen miles. There was two feet water in the canal, and the boat sixty feet in length and ten in width.

On the morning of the eleventh inst. it was found that the ice had increased so much during the night, that it was deemed unadvisable to proceed further; the horses were therefore hitched to the boat and the passengers returned the same way to Montezuma.

Much credit is due to captain Arnsbury and his associates, for their publick spirit in fitting the boat so as to make it comfortable and pleasant for the passengers at this inclement season.

A Munificent Act.

The Hon. Gideon Granger, late Post Master General of the U. States, and now a member of this state, has given to the state of New York one thousand acres of land, lying in the county of Steuben, the proceeds of which are to be appropriated towards completing the great Western Canal, from the Hudson to Lake Erie. While we have among us individuals of such wealth and public spirit, what project is too stupendous for New York to accomplish? It is to the beneficence of such gentlemen that society is indebted for its schools, its colleges and public institutions; and we are persuaded, that Mr. Granger's liberality could not have been directed to a nobler or more useful object, than the one he has selected. The benefit of his donation will be realized, not only by the present generation, but by ages yet unborn; and we hope the name of the benefactor will be co extensive with the public utility, which will result from his beneficence.

UNEXAMPLED LOAD OF FLOUR.

On Saturday last the citizens of this town were gratified with the extraordinary sight of six horses drawing through the streets, on their way to Alexandria, a waggon load of Flour, consisting of 45 barrels. This noble team of horses is owned and driven by our enterprizing townsman, Mr. Pelter. The anxiety of the citizens of our town, for the success of Mr. Pelter, was so great, as to induce several hundreds to accompany him to the hill, at the south extremity of Loudoun street, which it was believed would test the ability of his horses to perform the trip; to the surprize of all they clim the hill without a single lash of the whip, and without a falter! Much anxiety was then manifested on account of the prospects of unfavourable weather before the team would be enabled to reach the the turnpike: as was anticipated, there was a fall of snow on the same night, succeeded by a rapid thaw which added very greatly to the labour of the horses; fortunately, however, Mr. Pelter reached the turnpike, and crossed the mountain in safety and without difficulty: and his trip, (barring the accident of his waggon breaking) is considered as accomplished. This feat, together with a similar one performed by Mr. Hamilton, proves more than a volume of words could do, the importance of turnpiking the roads to Snickers and Berry's Ferry, so as to unite with the turnpikes leading from those places. A project holding out so many advantages, would, we venture to assert, be undertaken and completed in our sister States, Maryland, or Pennsylvania, in 12 months. Rouse then ye farmers from your lethargy, and follow the example of your neighbours!

LATE FROM ENGLAND.

A letter from Liverpool of November, 2, received at London, says, 'The Collector of this port has given orders that all vessels from the United States shall be placed under quarantine.

'The Ann Crocker, from New-York, is now off this port, with upwards of 100 returned emigrants.

'There are only two American vessels in port: a circumstance almost unprecedented in time of peace.'

Accounts from the Leeds state that a large number of pikes, of a most dangerous and deadly construction had been manufactured and distributed in the manufacturing districts. Six pieces of artillery and a proportionate number of men, & four companies of Infantry were expected there.

Numerous meetings had been notified in different parts of the kingdom, as well with a view to reform, as to give effectual aid to the civil power, in case of a disturbance of the peace.

CHINA.

Interesting advices have been received from China, through Mr. Milne, of the London Missionary Society, resident there. That extensive empire is greatly agitated, and apparently on the eve of revolutionizing; the country is filled with secret societies, which numerous executions cannot put down: one hundred per month are executed in the single province of Danton. The names of some of the societies are ludicrous enough, viz. White Jackets, Red Beards, and Short Swords! A dreadful earthquake and famine lately occurred in China, and which the superstitious natives consider as portending the fall of the present dynasty.

Translated for the N. Y. D. Advertiser, from a Paris paper.

THE KENTUCKY VELOCIPEDE.

In Kentucky a great improvement has been made in the Velocipede—a machine which, by the mere impulse of the body, enables a person, with all possible ease, to travel at the rate of nine miles an hour. The improvement consists in having changed the body of the machine into the form of a fish, with the head of a horse, and made completely water proof; so that it not only floats, but enables the traveller to cross the rivers and lakes with which this continent abounds: at the same time, he has the advantage of carrying along with him, in the body of the animal, his provisions and baggage. This wonderful creature has been named the ALLIGATOR-HORSE.

THE IMPORTANCE OF CORRECT PUNCTUATION.

A curious and very ingenious expedient was lately resorted to, at a trial in Dublin to save a prisoner, charged with robbery. The principal thing that appeared in evidence against him was a confession alledged to have been made by him at the police office, and taken down in writing by a police officer. The document purporting to contain this self-criminating acknowledgement was produced by the officer, and the following passage read from it:

'Magnan said he never robbed but twice said it was Crawford.'

This, it will be observed, had no mark of the writer's having any notice of punctuation, but the meaning he attached to it will be evident from the following mode of printing it:

'Magnan said he never robbed but twice—Said it was Crawford.'

Mr. O'Gorman, the Counsel for the prisoner, begged to look at the paper. He perused it, and rather astonished the peace officer, by asserting, that, so far from proving the man's guilt, it clearly established his innocence. 'This,' (said the learned gentleman) is the fair and obvious reading of the sentence:

'Magnan said, he never robbed—but twice said it was Crawford.'

The man was of course acquitted.

HORRORS OF WAR!

The following passage affords a terrible picture of war; "at Helder a Frenchman and a Highlander had charged upon each other; the Frenchman had parried the thrust of the Highlander, and run him through the body; the Highlander had then let go his hold of the but end of his piece with his right hand, and seized, with a death grasp, the throat of the Frenchman, who to extricate himself, had also let go the hold of his firelock with his right hand, and seized the wrist of the Highlander to pull it away from his throat; but he had been unable; the Frenchman had then staggered backwards, and had fallen on his back, and the Highlander above him, still retaining hold of his throat; and in the struggle which had then taken place, the head of the Highlander had projected so far over the head of the Frenchman, as to bring that part of the body of the former in which the bayonet was, over the mouth of the latter; and in this posture both had expired. Those who saw it, said the sight was truly shocking,

TOWN OF AMERICA.

THE undersigned, owner of a large number of squares, half squares, and lots in the above town, and of about five hundred acres of land adjoining to it, proposes to sell to actual settlers, any number of lots, not exceeding one hundred; and several out lots of twenty acres each, on terms highly calculated to promote the interest of the purchasers. He is also authorized to sell on liberal terms and in small tracts, seven thousand acres of excellent land, lying about the Town and in its immediate neighborhood.

This town is situated in the fork of the Ohio and Mississippi, on the bank of the former, and on the first piece of high ground above their junction.

No person of any reflection has ever looked upon a map of North America without being struck with the mighty confluence of water which is exhibited at the junction of the Ohio and Mississippi: and the natural sentiment that a great city must grow up at that point has only been checked by the apprehension that the place was annually inundated. The apprehension was incorrect. The town scite and the back country are free from inundation, and both are now settled and are constantly increasing in population. The town has been selected for the seat of Justice for the county of Alexander in which it is situated, and both the county and circuit courts are, and will be held there The neighboring country is well settled, not by a detached population, but by connected settlements spreading into the interior of the state of Illinois.

The mind is therefore free to expatiate upon the advantages of this situation, and the undersigned can leave it to any man of sense and candor to say whether any point upon our continent has ever presented a fairer prospect of a greater inland commercial city?

Situated on the first high ground above the confluence of the noblest streams in America—at a point from which large steam boats can at all times descend to New Orleans—with a rich back country to support it—and a numerous population now covering the adjacent country, and it is difficult to assign a reason why this town should not in a few years rank with the first in America.

Besides its water communications it may reasonably count upon the advantage of seeing pass through it the great road which will be required to facilitate the intercourse between the Upper and the Lower Mississippi. Authentic information authorizes the assertion that the country south of the Ohio is entirely practicable for a road, which can be opened across the west ends of Kentucky and Tennessee through the late Chickasaw purchase and lead to New Orleans over a direct route parallel to the course of the Mississippi.

The undersigned will be upon the spot to sell to actual settlers during the balance of the winter and spring months. He prefers to sell upon the spot, when purchasers can see with their own eyes the advantages of the situation, and therefore will be present at a time when the revival of commerce upon the river and the passing of steam boats will make it convenient for all those to visit the place and examine it for themselves who may wish to become interested in it.

He is also authorised to say that the proprietors, or a part of them, will sell at auction, on the ground, on the third Monday in April next, being the first day of the Circuit court, ONE HUNDRED LOTS; one third of the purchase money to be paid in hand, one third in six, and one in twelve months, to raise a fund for improving the place, to which the whole proceeds of the 100 lots will be applied.

Pittsburgh Manufacturing Association.

A NUMBER of the Mechanicks and Manufacturers of the City of Pittsburgh and its vicinity, anxious to promote and invigorate that spirit of domestic industry which is so essential to the prosperity of the western country, having entered into an association under the above denomination, inform the public that they have opened a large and convenient Brick Warehouse in Wood Street, between Front and Second Streets, for the reception and sale of the different articles which they manufacture, together with such articles of domestick produce and manufacture as may be deposited for sale, or consigned to their care; and have appointed George Cochran their Chief Clerk or Agent, to whom all orders and communications on the mercantile business of the association, will in future be addressed. They intend to receive, forward and dispose of all goods entrusted to their care, (especially articles of domestick produce and manufacture) on the most reasonable terms, and hope to give satisfaction to those who may please to favour them with their custom and patronage From the variety and extent of domestic produce and manufactures which may be collected and offered for sale at their Warehouse, with punctuality in paying over the proceeds, and attention to business, a beneficial result is anticipated, as well to the vender as the purchaser.

All orders enclosing the cash for articles manufactured by the members of the association, or sold in their Warehouse, will be promptly and faithfully executed, at the lowest wholesale prices, without any charge for commission, and western current notes taken in payment

It is also intended to exchange manufactured articles for country produce and raw materials, such as Iron, Lead, Wool, Cotton, Sugar, Salt, Whiskey, Bacon, Hogs-lard, Butter, Cheese, Flaxseed Oil, Hogs Bristles, Linen, Yarn, Rags.

Annexed is a list of articles now offered for Sale.

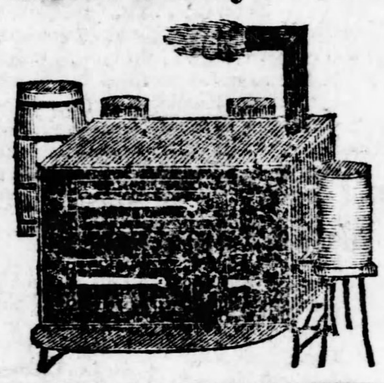
Henry Miller & Co.

HAVE the pleasure of announcing to their friends and the public generally, that they have again opened their establishment for manufacturing Postly's Patent COOKING STOVES at their old stand, in Second street, two doors from Wood street, where all orders will be attended to.

December 21,

Charles Postly's Patent



COOKING STOVE
OR PORTABLE KITCHENS.

MANUFACTURED and sold by HENRY MILLER & Co in 2d street, two doors from the corner of Wood streets, Pittsburgh.

This Stove with fixtures complete, comprises every necessary article of apparatus for an extensive cooking establishment.

The different sizes are calculated to do the cooking for small or large families, public houses and Steam-boats, and are so extremely simple in their construction as to be managed with ease by a child, twelve or fourteen years of age.

With this Stove may be cooked, by baking, roasting, boiling and by steam, a sufficiency of meats, fish, fowls and vegetables, to make a dinner for from 5 to 100 persons, while at the same time may be baked from 1 to 8 loaves of bread.

A wooden vessel containing from twenty to fifty gallons of water, can also be kept boiling, for the purposes of washing, &c. All these are done simultaneously and with one small fire.

The circumstance of these Stoves having got into very general use at the eastward, within 2 or 3 years past, particularly in the cities of New-York and Baltimore, with the rapid sale and general approbation they have met with since their first introduction last winter, west of the mountains, are sufficient testimonials of their utility and advantage.

The subscribers having purchased of the patentee the right for making and vending said Stoves in the western country, are ready to execute with punctuality and despatch, all orders at his Manufactory, as above, where also may be had, Cast and Sheet Iron Stoves, suitable for Parlours, Offices, Stores & Bed-rooms, to which boilers may be attached if wanted.

The proprietors to accommodate persons residing in different parts of the country, have opened a store in Main street, Cincinnati, and also appointed agents, as follows—Luther Stephens & Co. Lexington, Ken. Samuel January, Sen. & Co. Maysville, Ken. J. B. Bowles, Louisville, K. Joseph Litton, Nashville, Tenn. James Cochran, Madison, Indiana. Neal & Liggett, St. Louis.
